Charity receives funding to provide free welfare rights advice sessions

A LOCAL welfare rights charity has received funding to provide a free advice service in West Lancashire's Northern Parishes for a limited time.

The surgeries, run by Skelmersdale-based South West Lancashire ICAN, will offer support on a range of topics including Personal Independence Payments (PIP), Disability Living Allowance (DLA), Attendance Allowance (AA), Employment Support Allowance (ESA), Housing Benefit and Employment Law.

The charity can also provide clients with help completing DLA/PIP, AA and ESA forms and tribunal appeals.

James McDermott, senior adviser at South West Lancashire ICAN said "Thanks to funding from West Lancashire Borough Council, the local Clinical Commissioning Group and the Eric Wright Foundation, we are able to provide this service two days a week until the week commencing May 13.

"Hopefully the work we do throughout this period will provide us with the evidence we need to have a permanent presence in the Northern Parishes.

"Through providing welfare rights advice for more than 20 years we know that welfare, disability and financial difficulties are relative and this type of service is needed in these areas, just as much as the larger towns in West Lancashire. Indeed, in the first few weeks operating this service we have had client appointments at each of the locations which is a really positive response."

Outreach services are provided at Hesketh Bank Christian Centre, Moss Lane on Mondays from 1 to 3.30pm and at Burscough Methodist Church, Orrell Lane, Burscough on Wednesdays from 1 to 3.30pm.

Clients can call in to these locations at the times stated or for further information ring 01695 726269,; email swlican2014@gmail.com; or visit website swlican.org.

VIOLET'S DREAM DATE WITH HER POP IDOL OLLY!

Burscough youngster gets to sing a duet with TV star of X Factor and The Voice

Report by Kenny Parker

A YOUNGSTER from West Lancashire who was born with a potentially life-limiting genetic development disorder had a dream come true when she got to meet her favourite pop star, Olly Murs.

Twelve-year-old Violet Till from Burscough, who has Williams syndrome, even got to sing a duet with the X Factor star and The Voice judge when she bravely asked him to sing for her.

Violet met her idol thanks to Rays of Sunshine, a national charity dedicated to brightening the lives of seriously ill children in the UK.

And it was the second time the charity had organised a special day for a member of the Till family, having previously arranged for Violet's twin sister, Poppy, who also has Williams, to meet chart-topping girl group Little Mix.

Exclusive

Williams syndrome is a genetic developmental disorder that affects many parts of the body, both mental and physical. Due to the condition the twins have regular appointments with a cardiologist, ophthalmologist and a paediatrician.

Violet's big day came when Olly Murs, who has been an ambassador for Rays of Sunshine since 2012, took time out of his busy schedule to meet a group of children at an exclusive 'wish' event in London.

Violet (centre) and Poppy share a 'selfie' with Olly Murs.

The delighted youngster got to enjoy time with the pop star, chatting and asking questions, as well as taking plenty of photos.

Then she went 'off script', spontaneously asking the singer: "Can you sing me a song?" And she was rewardedg when he happily performed a duet with her in front of the other children!

Mum Hayley said Violet had never been to an Olly Murs concert and so it was extra special for him to sing with her.

"Violet was so excited about meeting her idol Olly Murs and when she actually met him in London she was overjoyed. and words can't express the joy that her beaming smile brought to all our hearts."

Following the event, the presenter shared a social media post with a picture of Violet on his Instagram page that read 'Wicked day meeting you all and telling me I'll win @thevoiceuk this year! Don't worry I won't tell the other coaches, your secret's safe with me #kissesforwishes."

Chance to sign up and pay online for garden waste collection service

RESIDENTS in West Lancashire wishing to use the borough council's chargeable garden waste collection service from week beginning Monday, June 3 can sign up and pay online.

Those who are currently signed up to the service will have collections made up until the week ending Friday, May 31 but must subscribe again if they wish to continue having their brown bins emptied from June 3 for the following 12 months.

If they subscribe by Friday, May 17 they will be guaranteed no interruption to the service, which will continue on a fortnightly basis.

The service remains at the same cost of £30 per year for one brown bin to be emptied. Householders can also have additional brown bins emptied at a cost of £25 each per year. Additional bins can also be purchased at a cost of £25 if needed.

New customers who haven't subscribed to the service before can sign up and purchase their brown bin online.

The council says the quickest and most convenient way to sign up and pay is via the website www.westlancs.gov.uk/gardenwaste.

Residents who do sign up must put their house number in the white square on the front of their brown bin to make sure it can be identified by collection staff and a valid subscription confirmed to minimise the risk of any missed bins.

Where bins are not clearly numbered and a valid subscription can't be confirmed a warning label will be attached to the bin.

Those who decide not to sign up and pay will be able to dispose of garden waste at household waste recycling centres, or compost it.

MP supports call to axe VAT on safety products

WEST Lancs MP Rosie Cooper is supporting a campaign to abolish VAT on all safety products and services that go into UK homes.

The Axe Safety Tax initiative is urging the Government to scrap the 20% tax on a range of products including fire alarms, carbon monoxide detectors, gas safety checks, fire doors and fire extinguishers.

Data from the Department of Health and Social Care shows that on average there are 50 deaths in the UK every year due to carbon monoxide poisoning, and 4,000 people receive medical visits.

Fuel poverty charity, National Energy Action, says that low-income households are most at risk from carbon monoxide poisoning as they cannot afford to service, repair or replace gas appliances.

Rosie Cooper "inappropriate to tax home safety products as luxury items".

And Gas Safe Register, the official gas registration body for the UK, says that gas fires are the biggest risk with a third checked by the safety authority deemed unsafe.

Other research gathered by the campaign shows that there are 2,469 electrical fire incidents caused by faults reported each year in England and Wales and that approximately 1.5 million households in England do not have a smoke alarm.

Rosie Cooper said: "Safety in the home is rightly at the top of the political and public agenda and scrapping VAT on safety products would be a high-profile demonstration of its importance.

"It is totally inappropriate that safety products in the home are taxed as if they are luxury items. It's vital no barriers are put in the way of helping people to make their homes as safe as possible."

Mother's Day-themed fundraiser for Isobel's cancer fight campaign

Report by Kenny Parker

Cancer battler Isabel Morison with husband Stuart and children, Dylan and Lucy.

A MOTHER'S day-themed event has been organised to help raise money to enable mum-of-two Isabel Morison to undergo pioneering treatment for brain cancer.

The event, to be held at St Anne's Pastoral Centre, Prescot Road, Ormskirk, between noon and 5pm on Saturday, March 23, will feature a range of beauty and well-being treatments and workshops.

There will also be craft stalls for children to make their own cards and other personalised gifts in time for Mother's day on Sunday, March 31.

In addition, a photographer will be in attendance offering mini photo-shoots for donations and a member of Hurlston Golf Club is offering taster sessions at the club's driving range in exchange for donations, for those who prefer to give a more active gift.

40-year-old Isabel from Aughton was diagnosed with a grade four primary glioblastoma - the fastest-growing and most aggressive form of brain cancer - in March last year.

A fund set up to raise £200,000 to pay for pioneering immunotherapy treatment has already topped the £80,000 mark - thanks to 'amazing' fundraising efforts by family, friends and the community.

This latest fundraiser has been organised by Isabel's friend Kate Lawrenson, with the help of the local community and St Anne's Catholic Primary School in Ormskirk, where Isabel's children, Dylan and Lucy are pupils.

Kate said: "There will also be a chance for those attending to sit down and put their feet up with refreshments and cake. So please tell your family and friends, this is an event not to be missed for a worthy cause!"

Council says residents will have the chance to give their views on substation proposal

WEST Lancs Council has responded to concerns raised over plans to build an electricity substation in Aughton.

Residents have sent petitions to the authority opposing the proposal for the siting of the structure in Sandy Lane as part of a power supply upgrade on the Merseyrail Network.

In response, the council issued the following statement: "As the local planning authority, the council is statutorily obliged to accept and determine the planning application for a proposed substation.

"In reaching a decision as to whether or not the application is granted planning permission, the council, in this case the planning committee, will have regard to national and local policy, the supporting case submitted by the applicant and representations received from third parties including local residents.

"In terms of the neighbour notifications, as with all applications for planning permission, the publicity is carried out in accordance with prescribed statutory requirements as set out in The Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015.

"In this instance this resulted in direct notification of the only immediately adjacent neighbour, the posting of a site notice and publication of the application in the local free press.

"In carrying out these actions, the council fully complied with the statutory obligation required by the order.

"The council has received two petitions and a large number of individual letters of objection to the proposal and these will be reported to the planning committee."

Meanwhile Network Rail have agreed to meet residents and have organised an open evening to be held this evening (Wednesday, March 13) at the Aughton Institute from 6pm.

Fatal crash info plea

POLICE are appealing for information following a fatal traffic collision in Halsall.

Officers were called to Renacres Lane at around 7.45am Tuesday, March 5 to reports an HGV had collided with a concrete post.

The driver, a 54-year-old man from Kent, was taken to Southport Hospital but sadly passed away a short time later.

Sergeant Martin Wilcock, of Lancashire Police said: "Our thoughts are with this man's family and friends at this incredibly difficult time. We do not believe any other vehicles were involved in the collision but we continue to work to establish the full circumstances. If you saw the collision, or saw the vehicle in the moments before it happened, please let us know."

Anybody with information is asked to contact police on 101, quoting log number 183 of Tuesday March 5.

Pensioner seeking to thank her trio of good Samaritans

A PENSIONER is seeking through the Champion to thank three "gentlemen" who came to her aid when she had a bad fall in Ormskirk town centre.

The woman, who does not wish to be named, fell face-down outside O'Briens Tea Rooms in Park Road on Thursday, February 28.

She is particularly keen to thank the trio - who, she says didn't appear to be together - who helped her to her feet and took her into the tea rooms where staff also provided assistance until paramedics arrived.

The pensioner, who suffered severe brusing in the fall, said: "I had a very bad fall and these three gentlemen kindly came and picked me up and put me in the foyer of O' Briens Tea Rooms from where paramedics took me to Southport Hospital.

"Everybody who helped were brilliant. I have been able to thank the hospital, the ambulance service, and the people in O'Briens, but nobody knows who the three gentleman who picked me up are. If it wasn't for them I don't know what would have happened. "

Edge Hill shortlisted in six categories of student awards

Ormskirk institution in running for prestigious University of the Year title

EDGE Hill University has been shortlisted in six categories in this year's WhatUni Student Choice Awards, including the prestigious University of the Year title.

Despite facing tough competition from some 160 universities and institutions, Edge Hill has been shortlisted in the University of the Year, Accommodation, International, Uni Facilities, Job Prospects and Student Support categories.

Vice-Chancellor, Dr John Cater, said: "It's fantastic to be shortlisted in the WhatUni awards in six categories. To be one of a handful of institutions ranked so highly by students themselves shows we're providing the very best facilities, support, accommodation and job prospects for students.

"We work very hard to provide an outstanding student experience so to be shortlisted as one of only three diversified English universities in the top University of the Year category is great news and shows we're doing things right."

Vice-chancellor Dr John Cater has described the shortlistings as "fantastic".

Lisa Gerraty, head of international recruitment and admissions at the Ormskirk campus, said: "Providing an excellent service to our international students is at the heart of what we do, and is a priority as we welcome students from increasingly diverse nationalities into the Edge Hill family. We are delighted to receive this endorsement from our students."

The awards, now in their sixth year, are the only university experience awards based on student reviews with more than 48,000 reviews collected this year.

Fay Sherrington, Edge Hill's director of student services, commented: "It's such an honour to be shortlisted. We strive to provide excellent support for students which is high-quality, timely and professional, and to support students throughout all stages of their journey. I know from the feedback we receive that the support staff provide across the university makes a genuine difference to students' lives."

Katie Duncan, head of communications at IDP Connect who organise the awards, said: "In a challenging climate for Higher Education institutions, there is nothing more rewarding than being recognised by their students for delivering such positive experience.

"The reviews by current students that make up these nominations are invaluable for prospective students who use them to make decisions about their future."

The winners will be announced on Thursday, April 25 at a ceremony in London.

Chris has designs on bringing old clothes back into fashion!

Report by Kenny Parker

A FASHION designer who has opened a new business in Ormskirk is aiming to 'do his bit' for the environment by encouraging people to recycle rather than throw away their old clothes.

Chris Appleton launched his clothes-altering shop, Chapple, in Church Walks, having previously worked for a company in Wigan.

And the 34-year-old from Scarisbrick says he chose Ormskirk as the location for the store ahead of his other possible options - Southport and Wigan - as it was "tidier" and "there looked to be more going on."

Chris, who has a BA honours in fashion design marketing manufacturer and promotion from Huddersfield University, said: "As I was looking around for where to start my business, originally it was going to be either Southport or Wigan because those are two places that I know best.

"But somebody suggested walking around Ormskirk and I found it tidier, with fewer empty shops and more going on with the markets and generally there seems to be a lot more people around here."

Attention

While dealing primarily in clothing alterations, he is also keen on making clothes and bags out of recycled garments after learning about the harm done to the environment by the fashion industry.

"A friend told me about the recycling trend and I also saw a TV programme about fashion being a huge pollutant. Ever since I've been looking more into it, seeing what people have been doing and thinking I can do that.

Chris Appleton outside Chapple with a coat he has made out of recycled fabric bought from a vintage shop.

"It's early days, but I've already got a skirt and a dress made out of ties and a couple of bags made out of denim. I have had the dress in the shop window and it has attracted a lot of attention."

The budding entrepreneur will be selling the recycled creations, both in the shop and online, but admits they "may be a bit too wacky for Ormskirk" at the moment and claims his main aim is not to make money out of them.

"It's more about what people can do to help with recycling really.

"To people thinking about just binning an unwanted item of clothing, I say take it to a charity shop or to someone who can recycle it instead.

"There is quite a lot of stuff that gets thrown away but can still be used. I am trying to more encourage people to change their ideas and try and get them to think about what they can do to help."

Nia Pendleton-Watkins with her dog Belle, known as 'Zefather What It Takes'.

Belle's a champ at the double!

Report by Danielle Thompson

A DOG-lover from West Lancs is celebrating at the double after her Great Dane won two categories at Crufts.

Belle, who is owned by Nia Pendleton-Watkins' from Hesketh Bank, won both Best Bitch (in breed) and Best of Breed at the world-famous four-day international canine event held annually in Birmingham.

The Great, whose show name is 'Zefather What It Takes', was also featured in the working group category which was televised on Channel 4.

The dog's success is a dream come true for Nia after Belle won Best Puppy Bitch, Best Puppy in Breed and Reserve Champion Bitch at last year's Crufts contest, when she was just 10 month old.

A delighted Nia told the Champion: "Bella won Best of Breed for Great Dane - beating competition from all over the world! It's a dream out of all proportions to win this!

"Her breeder showed her for me on the day although I show her some of the time as well.

"This year we went as a family with my mother, sister and daughter and her partner and had a very long but exhilarating day!

"We are all on cloud nine and received congratulations from all over the world.

"Belle has even just been signed up to a dog modelling agency.

"We're also hoping she'll become an ambassador for a dog food company."

Intravenous therapy treatment available at walk-in centre

CCG chair says new approach will be beneficial for patients and reduce hospital admissions

Report by Kenny Parker

IV nurses, Georgia Barton and Julie Silcock with patient, Shirley Waterman at the walk-in centre.

PATIENTS in West Lancs requiring intravenous treatment can now receive their care at a walk-in centre rather than at home or in hospital, which it's claimed will be quicker, more convenient and likely to improve recovery times.

The NHS and local community services provider Virgin Care have partnered to provide the service - which they say will also reduce hospital admissions - at the West Lancashire Urgent Care and Walk-in Centre based at Ormskirk Hospital in Wigan Road.

Intravenous (IV) therapy is used to treat infections more effectively than oral antibiotics.

Shirley Waterman from Lathom was the first person to receive the treatment at the Virgin Care centre. The 64-year-old requires IV therapy each day and being taken to the health centre by her daughter, Donna Massan, is proving to be a more convenient and faster solution than waiting in for a home visit.

Donna, from Skelmersdale, said, "I can recommend this treatment at the West Lancashire Health Centre. Mum was seen immediately and our appointment was done and dusted within an hour.

"Last year, I had to use the home visit service for outpatient antimicrobial therapy. Although the service was good, I didn't know what time the nurse would arrive just that it would be that day. This approach is much better and I would highly recommend other patients to use this brilliant new service."

Virgin Care says that the health centre team is able to treat more than one patient at a time and this means they are more likely to make a quicker recovery and avoid being re-admitted into hospital.

They also claim it is beneficial for patients to meet others going through the same treatment so they can provide peer support to one another.

However, home visits are still available for people who can't or don't want to travel.

Dr John Caine GP, chair of NHS West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group, added: "This new approach to administering IV therapy will prove incredibly beneficial for patients in West Lancashire.

"By bringing patients to a specialist centre, it not only means that we reduce hospital admissions, freeing up beds in the process, but also means that we can treat more patients and quicker, by treating them within a dedicated clinic."

Open weekend to mark church's 150th anniversary

Report by Kenny Parker

OFFICIALS of a West Lancs church are planning a series of exhibitions and events to mark a special milestone.

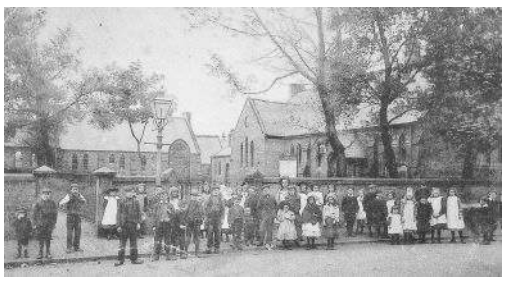
Burscough Methodist Church celebrates its 150th anniversary this month and is staging an Open weekend on Saturday and Sunday, March 23 and 24.

The church in Orrell Lane, Burscough Bridge and originally known as the Wesleyan Chapel, opened on March 26, 1869 followed on January 9, 1871 by the affiliated neighbouring Burscough Bridge Methodist Primary School.

A significant renovation was undertaken at the church in 2014 costing in excess of £300,000 and including making it accessible for wheelchair-users and creating a reception area with lift and stair access to a first floor meeting room.

Church members also have plans to replace the hall adjacent to the main building to enable them to offer more opportunities for existing and new users belonging to the church and wider community.

The anniversary celebrations get underway at 11am on the Saturday and among the events planned is a special songs of praise service with visitors choosing their favourite hymns and songs, while a local poet will also be reading a poem specially prepared for the occasion.



Now and then . . . Burscough Methodist Church today (above) and below the Wesley Chapel circa 1905.

The weekend will feature a display organised in conjunction with local history group, Images of Burscough and Burscough Wellbeing Cafe and Community Hub, complete with photographs, videos and memorabilia charting church and village life over the past 150 years.

And there will also be displays by the various uniformed groups which currently meet in the church premises, the mother and toddlers' group and the Burscough Methodist Players.

On Saturday, pupils from Burscough Bridge Methodist Primary School will sing for visitors and there will also be a puppet show.

Refreshments will be available on Saturday, including a soup lunch.

Meanwhile local poet, Chris Ryley, will be making available copies of a poem he has written for the occasion.

He is expected to give a recital at an informal service on Sunday starting at 10am at which young people will give testimonies of growing up in the church.

And to round off the celebrations there will be a 'community songs of praise' starting at 6.30pm on Sunday. This is an informal service where people can request their particular favourite hymns.

Authority announces £13.4m housing stock investment programme

WEST Lancs Council has announced continued works to improve its housing stock as part of a £13.4 million programme which will also see the delivery of two new housing estates in the borough.

Work is scheduled to finish next month on the new homes at Walmsley Drive, Ormskirk. The development, on the former Westec House site in the town centre, features 18 homes for sale, with 11 already reserved. A further two-bedroom house will be available for shared ownership.

Meanwhile at the Beechtrees site in Digmoor, Skelmersdale, 36 new two-bedroom homes will be ready for new residents to move into from July.

These will be retained by the council to be rented as social housing. The authority says the properties will be high-quality homes for local people at affordable rents.

Meanwhile council homes in Appley Bridge, Ashurst, Aughton, Banks, Burscough, Ormskirk, Skelmersdale, Up Holland, Westhead and Wrightington will see continued major investment programmes in 2019/2020 which the authority says will benefit tenants and their families for years to come.

Works in the 2019/20 programme include:

Housing portfolio holder Cllr. Jennifer Forshaw.

- More than 150 homes to have quality replacement kitchens and a further 150 to get new bathrooms in Up Holland.
- New roofs, fascias, gutters and rainwater pipes on around 400 homes, mostly in Ormskirk.
- Repairs on around 100 homes in Old Skelmersdale to external walls including much-needed external insulation works.
- 150 homes in Skelmersdale to benefit from new windows and doors.
- Modern, energy-efficient heating systems being installed in more than 250 homes in different parts of the borough, lowering fuel bills and reducing carbon emissions.
- Modern electrical systems being installed in around 250 homes in the Banks and Aughton areas.
- Installing new LED lights and improving and updating electrics in communal areas in low-rise flats across the borough to make properties brighter and more secure.

The work programmes are currently being developed by the council's property services team who will soon be informing tenants about work to be carried out.

Councillor Jennifer Forshaw, the council's portfolio holder for housing and landlord services, said: "Building homes that people need, revitalising our estates and improving existing council homes are important council projects. The authority is working hard to continue investing substantial amounts in its council homes, as well as building new ones.

"The council is excited about the projects to build new homes in Ormskirk and in Skelmersdale. The Beechtrees scheme will help enhance this part of Digmoor. The Ormskirk scheme will also provide new homes and the funds raised from the sales will go towards supporting the council's capital programme and helping to meet our priorities."

Residents' call for safety measures on 'unofficial bypass'

A GROUP of residents are threatening to pursue legal action in a bid to secure traffic-calming measures to improve safety on a busy road.

Fiona Jenkins and fellow residents of Long Lane in Aughton say that the road, which is a 30mph zone but merges into a 60mph zone at Bickerstaffe, has become an 'unofficial bypass' for Ormskirk.

And they claim that because of the lack of speed-calming measures, drivers regularly exceed the limit, while it also attracts what they describe as "unsuitable" vehicles.

A survey by residents found that there were on average three accidents or near misses on the road every month.

Meanwhile, a Lancashire County Council survey in June 2017 showed that 15% of drivers were clocked at speeds of at least 47mph within the 30mph zone.

The residents are calling for two 'sleeping policemen' to be sited on the road which they say would cost about £4,000.

In an email to the county council, the highways authority, Fiona wrote: "We, the residents of Long Lane, Aughton, are formally writing to you in order to provide you with a list of concerns, accidents and near-miss accidents (attached and summarised) with attributable reason that have occurred along the residential, Bickerstaffe end of Long Lane in the past five years in order that you can prioritise the installation of, at bare minimum, a pair of permanent obstacles along the section."

The email went on to claim that drivers had been encouraged by the lack of traffic-calming measures, to drive at great speed.

Concluding by reminding the authority of their obligation to maintain safety, it added: "If you fail to act upon your responsibilities and attempt to brush this under the carpet we will, as a group, pursue it through court."

Traffic on Long Lane which residents say has become an ' unofficial bypass' for Ormskirk.

A spokesperson for Aughton Parish Council said that they had considered Ms Jenkins' remarks carefully and had been in touch with County Councillor Paul Greenall, the representative for West Lancashire East, about the "serious Long Lane traffic issues."

Cllr. Greenall then contacted the highways department to express residents' concerns and requested that the authority consider installing road-narrowing measures.

A spokesman for Lancashire County Council said: "We have worked alongside the police in the past to address concerns about speeding on Long Lane, and establish sites where enforcement can take place.

"We are currently working with the parish council to put in place permanent measures designed to reduce speeds and encourage drivers to observe the 30mph limit which is in place on the residential part of the road.

"In light of concerns about safety and increasing traffic volumes we are also reviewing the information and intelligence we have about this location and will provide a full response in due course."

Council exceeding Government target for apprenticeships

WEST Lancashire Borough Council celebrated National Apprenticeships Week by reporting that it is exceeding its target for facilitating new apprenticeships at the council.

The Government set a target for all public sector organisations to have an average of 2.3% of the workforce undertaking an apprenticeship between 2017 and 2021.

Latest figures show that the council is exceeding this target having created eight new apprenticeships and providing management and team leading apprenticeships to 12 existing members of staff, which means the authority has around 4% of its workforce undertaking apprenticeship training.

Council employees Clare Lee, Kate Pierce, Peter Quick, Pippa Sandells and Shelley Fryer at the launch of their management apprenticeships.

Councillor Yvonne Gagen, cabinet member for human resources, said: "The council is really proud that it is exceeding its target for apprenticeships which shows we are setting a fine example of facilitating this important pathway into employment and to learn new skills in the workplace."

The council works with a number of external providers on apprenticeship schemes for its own staff including INSTEP UK Limited for managers and supervisors apprenticeships; West Lancashire College for business admin; St Helens College for horticulture and Liverpool John Moores University for estates surveying.

As well as creating new apprenticeships within the authority, the council also advices local businesses on how to recruit apprentices as part of its role in supporting skills and employment initiatives.

Since October 2015 the council has supported the creation of 55 apprenticeships in small and medium-sized enterprises across West Lancashire.

It has worked closely with The Cashroom Limited on the programme of training, as well as the recruitment process for their apprentices. The company, based at the West Lancashire Investment Centre, provides outsourced cashiering services to law firms throughout the UK, as well as being able to provide their clients with management accounts and payroll services.

Over the last three years The Cashroom Limited has developed more than a dozen apprentices, many of whom are still with the business at varying levels of seniority.

Alex Holt, director of business development for The Cashroom, said: "We value our apprentices incredibly highly and we are very proud of all of them.The council's team have worked really well alongside us and we hope will continue to do so."

Any business wishing to find out more about taking on an apprentice can contact Tracey Shaw by emailing lets.talk@westlancs.gov.uk.

Neighbouring council turns to Edge Hill for help with special education needs survey

RESEARCHERS at Edge Hill University have been commissioned to undertake an evaluation of Special Education Needs and Disability (SEND) services in neighbouring Sefton to help improve the service Sefton Council provides.

The evaluation, funded by Sefton's Clinical Commissioning Groups, will involve a sample of parents and carers with children and young people who have SEND.

Key partners including schools, and health and care services will also be asked to give their views in the evaluation.

The results will then be used to inform policy, strategy, prioritisation and development of activities and services related to the needs of young people aged under 25 years with a special educational need or disability.

Sefton's Councillor John Joseph Kelly.

Councillor John Joseph Kelly, Sefton's cabinet member for children, schools & safeguarding, said: "We have asked Edge Hill University to help us better understand Special Education Needs and Disability provision throughout Sefton.

"This is a very important project and we need parents and carers who are involved to give their views, both good and bad, so that we can positively shape how we deliver and develop services in the future.

"The ultimate goal is to help our children and young adults with SEND needs, as well as their families and support networks."

Participation in the evaluation is completely voluntary and those who contribute will be given complete anonymity. It is expected to be completed before April and a final report will be shared widely.

MPs invited to nominate healthcare heroes

MPs are being asked to nominate their local NHS healthcare heroes recognising staff who go 'above and beyond' the call of duty.

The Parliamentary Awards celebrate NHS staff, carers and volunteers' hard work, innovative ideas and unwavering efforts to put patients first. MPs have until Friday, April 26 to nominate outstanding individuals in their local area.

There are 10 categories, including a Lifetime Achievement award to honour those who have devoted their life or career to making the NHS better, both for patients and those who work within it.

Each MP can choose one nomination per category who will then be judged by senior local and regional NHS experts to find 'champions' in every part of the country in each category, to be announced in June.

Dr Ruth May, chief nursing officer for England, said: "I would encourage all those who have seen or received outstanding care first-hand, to send nominations to their MP."

Five go climbing!

Hospital colleagues shaping up to tackle Three Peaks Challenge in aid of hospice

Report by Kenny Parker

A TEAM of medical professionals from a West Lancs hospital are set to swap their white coats for anoraks and hiking boots to tackle a daunting charity challenge.

The fearless five - orthopaedic surgeon, Matt Cartwright-Terry; anaesthetists Dr Jim Hammond and Adrian Head-Rapson; operating department practitioner, Helen Price; and charge nurse Alex Birch - will take on the Three Peaks Challenge on Saturday May 18 to raise money for Queenscourt Hospice.

The team, all based at Renacres private hospital in Halsall, will be aiming to scale the highest mountains in Scotland, England and Wales respectively in just 24 hours.

They are currently undergoing rigorous training to prepare them for the event as they bid to climb a combined 11,000 feet-plus in a day ascending Ben Nevis (4,413), Scafell Pike (3,210) and Snowdon (3,560) and travelling a distance of more than 400 miles by road between the peaks.

Renacres is supporting the effort by providing transport and fuel to undertake the challenge and members of staff are also providing the necessary driver/support crew.

Alex Birch in training at Scafell Pike.

Alex Birch said: "We are undertaking the challenge to raise money for Queenscourt Hospice, which is the chosen charity for Renacres Hospital this year.

"It's a great local charity, run by a very dedicated team of professionals that provides support for the people of West Lancs, Southport and Formby.

Excited

"They receive less than one quarter of their costs from the NHS and the rest comes from charitable donations that help keep the hospice running.

"We have all hit the training very hard, changing our exercise and training regime to tailor our strength to climbing and endurance exercise. We are all very excited at the prospect of taking on such an amazing challenge."

Asked what they would do should they come across an injured climber during the challenge, the team said: "Under those circumstances we would stop the clock while we assisted the individual to whatever end and carry on with the challenge once we know that they are safe. We believe this would be within the spirit of the challenge."

Anyone wishing to donate to the team's fundraiser can do so by visiting https://uk.virginmoneygiving.com/AlexBirch5.

What our customers have to say.....

"It's now nearly two months since I had my hearing aids from you. I write to say how pleased I am with them and what a big difference they have made to my hearing ability. I can now join in conversations much more comfortably, which makes for a much better lifestyle. Thank you for your patience, kindness, advice and the excellent tests provided" J.McColl

"Since using your hearing aids, I have been able to hear my clock ticking, also the dawn chorus, which I have not heard for many a year. This is not one of the best services I have ever had, BUT THE BEST SERVICE EVER and I will recommend your services to anyone." J.Conroy

"The trial period on my hearing aids is over, so I am writing to thank you for your help and courtesy during the hearing tests and follow up visits. I am delighted with the aids and so are my family. The difference to my life and to the lives of my family, especially my wife is quite noticeable. No longer do I need the T.V or HiFi on so loud, I do not talk so loud or keep asking what did he/she/they say. I would certainly recommend you to anyone." M. White

"You have provided me with a level of hearing that I have not enjoyed for many years and I am very grateful for the consideration you have shown me. My wife wishes to thank you too, as she has been relieved of having to repeat everything several times. I am actually proud to be wearing the aids..... " A. Castillo

Applications now open for Battle of the Bands 2019

A MUSIC store and studio company based in West Lancashire has launched the second running of its Battle of the Bands competition for talented young musicians.

Following on from a sold-out finals show last year, Sounds Affects, which has branches in Ormskirk and Maghull, says this year's competition will take place on Saturday, June 8 at Edge Hill University's Rose Theatre.

Once again the competition is open to soloists, duos and bands of any genre aged from seven to 17. It will be split into two age categories, seven to 12 and 13 to 17.

Entrants will compete for the top prize of a full day's recording in Sound Affects Studios' professional recording studio in Ormskirk and there will be other prizes up for grabs, including master classes and individual awards for 'Best Performer' and 'Star of the Show'.

Organisers are aiming to build on the success of last year's competition held at Ormskirk Civic Hall.

Winners in the seven to 12 category were Mawdesley band, Social Nightmare, who "brought the house down" with their cover version of The Pretender by the Foo Fighters and followed it with one of their own compositions.

Last year's winners in the seven to 12 years category, Mawdesley band, Social Nightmare, being congratulated by members of the judging panel.

The winner of the 13 to 17 category was 14-year-old solo pianist Olivia Diaferi from Aintree.

A panel of expert industry judges for the competition will be announced shortly.

Applications are now open, there is an entry fee of £10 per act and applicants have until Saturday, March 30 to get their forms in.

Auditions for the live show will be held between Monday and Wednesday, April 15 and 17 at Sound Affects Studios in New Court Way, Ormskirk.

To apply email events@soundaffectsmusic.com; tel. 01695 580300; or visit Sound Affects Studios Facebook/Instagram to download the online form.

Care trust "committed" to apprenticeship scheme

TO mark National Apprentice Week bosses at Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust have said they are committed to providing alternative opportunities to college and university to help people develop long-term successful careers.

Apprenticeships offer an alternative route into skilled employment and are a way to earn while you learn and gain work experience, and they are available to people of all ages.

The trust has recently met the public sector target for apprentices, with 2.3% of the workforce signed up to an apprenticeship programme.

Damian Gallagher, director of workforce, said: "The trust values and supports all our apprentices. We facilitate lots of team-building days for our apprentices to ensure that their health and well-being is being met and promoting the social side of apprenticeships."

Don't blame Edge Hill for problems arising out of what are national issues

RE: 'Ormskirk was busy and vibrant long before Edge Hill's expansion' I would suggest that Jane Taylor (Letters, February 27) is confusing two separate issues and seeking to blame Edge Hill for both.

Firstly, the crisis in our High Street, in terms of the reduced variety of shops, is a crisis in every High Street. I suggest the cause is twofold - the greed of landlords charging such high rents that businesses cannot make a reasonable profit and the increasing number of us that shop online. Neither can be laid at the door of Edge Hill.

Secondly, the law of supply and demand applies to housing as with everything else. Taking 300 potential family homes out of the market (if correct) will not have made matters any better but is by no means the cause of difficulties.

Again the same applies to Ormskirk as many other places, it is the price of properties that keeps people off the property ladder not the absence of properties. Look around, there are plenty of 'for sale' signs.

The lack of starter homes for those wanting to get on to the property ladder or affordable rented property for those who want to rent are different issues and, I suggest, a reflection of national policies implemented over many years.

Again, these are not the responsibility of Edge Hill. I doubt any university provides accommodation for all its students. Such accommodation as is available on campus is usually reserved for first-year students or those with particular needs.

What may be a problem, although I have no factual information about it, is students from Liverpool universities using Ormskirk as a dormitory because accommodation here is cheaper than comparable accommodation in the city. Supply and demand again maybe?

Edge Hill is a big target and easy to have a go at. The behaviour of a few students does it no credit but things need to be kept in proportion. If you view the traffic queue on term-time mornings it is reasonably evident that a huge number of students come from quite some distance and thus do not influence the housing market in Ormskirk at all.

There must be a reasonable number of Ormskirk people who have found employment at the university and it will have attracted others to come and live, and spend, here.

If Edge Hill had not expanded it would probably have been subsumed by another university and who knows what the result of that might have been.

It is what, and where, it is. Perhaps we ought to be thankful for the contribution it, and the students, make to the local economy which would certainly be worse off without it.

Jonathan Burke, by email.

Beware of Government turning our NHS into the USA model

WE should all be extremely concerned that on February 13 the Government made secondary legislation that seeks to substantively change the regulations underpinning the existing contractual arrangements for provision of NHS GP services.

I know in Skelmersdale GP - and other NHS services - are struggling, but these changes are highly unlikely to improve the situation. In fact, I think they will make it worse. We should not allow such big changes to slide through Parliament in secondary legislation without any oversight by MPs.

The Statutory Instrument is due to take effect on April 1. It would enable new Integrated Care Providers (formerly called Accountable Care Organisations) to directly (privately) employ GPs, with the aim of delivering a whole range of hospital, primary care and community health services for a given area and its population in a way that would radically change patients' (and GPs') experience of the NHS. I believe it will mean less treatments unless one can pay and pave the way for charging for GP appointments and phone calls

Recent reports by the National Audit Office and the Nuffield Trust say there is no evidence that this would meet the intended aims of reducing costs and improving quality of patient care.

The chair of the British Medical Association has told GP members they 'should not feel pressured into entering an ICP contract as to do so could leave their patients worse off.' We must take this seriously.

On January 28 the Health Secretary, Matt Hancock, told the House of Commons Health and Social Care Select Committee inquiry into the NHS Long Term Plan that: "The Department of Health is open to potentially making Government time available for a bill."

Surely a substantive change to existing GP regulations should be part of such a Bill, and subject to Parliamentary scrutiny? MPs' scrutiny and open debate are essential for such huge changes to our GP services within the NHS.

Please write to your MP. Our NHS is under attack and the current government is moving our NHS inch by inch towards the USA model.

Joseph Walsh, Skelmersdale.

PICTURE of the week

CHAMPION reader Roslain Lazaroff submitted this shot of crows' nests high up in the trees near to Lathom High School in Skelmersdale. To submit a photo to be considered for inclusion in our 'Picture of the week' slot, simply email it to us at editorial@champnews.com. Don't forget to include a caption, together with your name and the area you are from, and mark your submission 'Picture of the week'.

The West Lancs area committee of the Lancashire Association of Local Councils - a clarification

DUE to a misunderstanding, the letter in last week's edition (March 6) headed 'Champion's role in giving voice to concerns about Local Plan recognised' mistakenly referred to a meeting of the West Lancs area committee of the Lancashire Association of Local Councils.

In fact, the correspondent who submitted the letter, 'Dave' was referring to a meeting of the Aughton Residents Group.

We apologise for this error and any distress or confusion it may have caused.

Police horses - and their muck - don't belong in town centre!

AS a proud citizen of Ormskirk I think it is digusting that horse excrement is left by police horses stationed outside numerous places in the town.

Police horses are impractical and dangerous around the town centre, not just for the danger of them going wild, but for the excrement they leave, which I have zig-zagged around and almost walked in on many occasions, surely an issue for the elderly population who cannot manoeuvre as quickly.

I find it hypocritical that it's an offence to leave dog excrement while figures of authority leave horse excrement. I know it is hard to clean up when you are on top of a horse but just leaving it for people to walk in is unacceptable.

I appreciate the police have to do their duty but it would be preferable for them to do it on foot. The horses are unnecessary, they need to go.

Otis Saroke, Ormskirk.

Brexit process undermined by incompetence and self-interest

DAVID Pryer (Letters, February 27) takes to task a number of previous writers regarding the number of those voting to leave the EU.

Unfortunately he does appear to play fast and loose with the numbers involved. He uses a total population figure of 66 million whereas those eligible to vote is much less at 45 million.

In addition, he highlights that 70% of young voters chose to remain but failed to mention this age group failed to vote in any significant proportional numbers. A high percentage of a low number is an even lower number so lacks any significance. It is also illogical to blame one age group for the lack of action of another group.

I voted to join the European Economic Community in 1971 whose objective is evident from the organisation's title.

In 2016 I voted to leave the European Union whose stated intention is to become a federal state. I wanted to protect our childrens' future from an organisation basically controlled by two nations and ruled over by unelected career politicians who are more concerned with process than what is appropriate.

We are in a position now the result of which is not going to please anybody, thanks to an incompetent governing body, ineffective opposition parties and a vindictive EU.

The nation voted to leave although the whole process has been completely incompetent throughout with self-interest apparently the main influence.

A Disappointed Leave Voter, details supplied.

Planters were blooming lovely!

ON visiting Ormskirk for shopping on Saturday, March 2, I was thrilled to see the planters looking so lovely on Aughton Street.

Well done to whoever achieved it. Thank you.

Support is available for smokers wanting to kick the habit

Care trust's timely reminder that Quit Squad are there to offer a helping hand

Report by Henry James

TO mark National No Smoking Day today (Wednesday, March 13) smokers wanting a helping hand to kick the habit are being urged to seek help from Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust's Quit Squad.

Health experts say smokers are four times more likely to give up with expert help and advice than alone and the Quit Squad can offer that specialist support.

Phil Gooden, strategic lead at Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust said: "Smoking is harmful to your health and one of the biggest causes of avoidable death and there are some 152,320 smokers in Lancashire alone.

"The Quit Squad has specially-trained advisors who are friendly, approachable and non-judgmental, who can support you to stop smoking and take the first steps to a healthier lifestyle.

Exposure

"To access the Quit Squad you can give us a call on 0800 3286297 or you can be referred through your GP or other health professionals. The service offers one-to-one support and advice for those who would like to stop smoking using an e-cigarette.

"We offer sessions in the community where you can make an appointment or drop-in at your convenience.

"The service also encourages people to protect their families by making a Smoke Free Pledge to ensure their cars and homes are smoke-free. The home is now the main source of exposure to second-hand smoke for children.

Lancashire Care Trust Quit Squad offer support and advice to help smokers who want to quit.

"Just because you cannot see it does not mean it's harmless - second-hand smoke puts children and adults at risk of the same diseases as smokers, including cancer and heart disease.

"The best way to protect family and friends is to give up smoking and make a Smoke Free Pledge. Together we can work towards a smoke-free generation and with us it is much easier than just you."

For further details about the Quit Squad, telephone 0800 328629; visit www.quitsquad.nhs.uk; or follow the Quit Squad on Twitter @LancashireCare #QuitSquad.

I wonder, doesn't anybody else read 'real' books anymore?

JUST a passing thought . . .how many people read books these days?

I don't mean text books, or possibly even ones about hobbies and specific interests, though perhaps they should too be included. But what I really mean are novels.

Not that long ago, when I travelled by public transport, there would more often than not be folk, like me, reading a book. These days though I almost feel self-conscious when I take my current novel out on a bus or train. Nobody else seems these day to do that anymore.

And it's not that long, it seems to me, since those 'electronic books' became all the rage although their reign appeared quite short-lived. These days the preferred way of alleviating the tedium of a bus or train journey seems to be to sit and play with your tablet. And it's not only young people, but folk of advanced years who do this.

Now what is on there of such interest is beyond my ken. I can't say I wouldn't find it fascinating also, if I were capable of using such an instrument, but I'm not. In any case, most of their users' time seems to be spent flipping through their screens and unless speed-reading on an advanced scale is practised these days I can't for the life of me even begin to guess what they are achieving.

As I said though, I am not in any way criticising anyone for using a system of information for which I am simply not equipped. But it still begs my original question. Do folk these days read novels? And if so, is this something done only in the privacy of one's own home?

Empirically the number of people using our public libraries actually to obtain books seem drastically to have fallen over recent years. Go into any library these days and acres of floor space which used to be home to hundreds of 'real' books has now been given up to banks of computers.

And again, I cannot really argue against any of that because that is presumably what today's folk want in their libraries. It is though ' hard cheese' for the likes of me, who regularly visit the library for the specific purpose of obtaining books to read on the bus.

It's fact that the number of books housed in these buildings has fallen - and quite dramatically - over the past few years. The situation isn't quite so bad in the few remaining large libraries, but even in middle-size establishments such as in my native Maghull, the problem becomes obvious if you want to read the works of one particular author. Suppose he or she has written a series of novels and you've read a couple but want more. All too often they simply ain't there. And yes, I know you can order specific books to be obtained from other libraries but that's not much use if the bus upon which you want to read it departs in 20 minutes, or for that matter, tomorrow.

This was brought home to me when I popped into the large library at Waterloo and discovered books by an author I have been trying to catch up on, in abundance. In Maghull library there seems to be only three.

And it isn't only in the realms of fiction that the axe has fallen. In the last big computer expansion at my local library, a large number of local history books were apparently culled.

I suppose anyone interested can get most or even more information on the Internet. But I am not unique, even today, in being unable to do this, and in any case, surely there is a difference between simply looking for information immediately and wanting to absorb a subject at your leisure?

Call me an old stick-in-the-mud, but I love the feel and smell of a 'real' book and I suspect many librarians would agree with me.

Shortlist revealed for Lancashire Book of the Year awards

THE shortlisted titles for this year's Lancashire Book of the Year awards have been revealed.

Lancashire Book of the Year is chosen by Year 9 pupils (aged 13 and 14) from across the county. It remains one of the few book awards where young people themselves are totally responsible for drawing up the shortlist and choosing the overall winner.

The event to announce the shortlist was attended by representatives from the 25 high schools taking part - including Ormskirk High School - with each district represented.

The shortlisted authors and books are:

Holly Bourne: It Only Happens In The Movies.
Katy Cannon: How To Write A Love Story.
Sarah Crossan: Moonrise.
Siobhan Curham: Don't Stop Thinking About Tomorrow.
Lauren Jame: The Loneliest Girl In The Universe.
Penny Joelson: Girl In The Window.
Taran Matharu: The Summoner: Outcast.
Nathan Parker: The Disappearance Of Timothy Dawson.
Paula Rawsthorne: Shell.
Fiona Shaw: Outwalkers.
S.M. Wilson: The Extinction Trials.

The shortlisted titles for this year's Lancashire Book of the Year awards have been announced.

The winning author will be decided on Tuesday, June 25 and announced at a special celebration event, with sponsors UCLan, on Friday, July 5.

County Councillor Peter Buckley, Lancashire County Council's cabinet member for community and cultural services, said: "Being introduced to books at a young age is important, as it can build up a love of reading that can stay with you for the rest of your life.

"It's fantastic to see so many young people so actively involved in choosing the books to go forward, and clearly getting so much pleasure from books.

"I know that what makes this award extra special for the shortlisted authors is that it is the young readers themselves who choose the winner, the young people they are actually writing for, and this means so much to them.

"I really hope that they enjoy reading these shortlisted books to decide on their overall winner, and that their love of reading continues."

Sponsored by UClan for the 17th year a total of 60 books were nominated and the young judges have been reading them since September to decide which to shortlist.

Exploring the mysteries of medieval church . . .

A TALK exploring the extraordinary history of a medieval church in West Lancashire will be held on Thursday, March 28.

Starting at 7.30pm in the choir vestry of St Cuthbert's Church, Halsall, the event is in aid of The Friends of St Cuthbert's and tickets, priced £5, are limited and available on first come-first served basis by phoning 01704 841085.

The talk, by churchwarden Stephen Henders, is entitled The Mysteries and Curiosities of Halsall St Cuthbert's. The church is a Grade 1 listed building parts of which date back to the 14th Century.

Mr Henders will reveal how a basic mistake affected village folk in Halsall for more than 600 years; how a treasure trove was discovered with links to the battle of Agincourt; how the father of one of England's greatest composers met tragedy here; and why the rector's wife brought disgrace to the village!

He will also explain why a chance painting shows Halsall life 225 years ago and the unique secret which the church has kept hidden since the Reformation.

Chapel Galley hosting interactive digital exhibition until May

AN interactive digital exhibition aimed at teenagers and curated by an academic from Edge Hill University is being showcased at the Chapel Gallery in Ormskirk, until May.

Funded by Arts Council England, the exhibition entitled Loop Effect, explores processes and the potential of loops, rhythms and cycles within digital animation.

It has been it has been created by Dr Alex Jukes, Senior Lecturer and Programme Leader for Animation at Edge Hill working with three other artists and offers youngsters aged 13 to 18 the opportunity to book free workshops that include light painting and games play, listen to talks from the artists involved, and explore the displays.

Dr Jukes said: "The digital exhibition area at Chapel Gallery is a wonderful space to explore large-scale digital art work and I was delighted to be asked to develop this inaugural digital exhibition the gallery.

"Loop Effect looks at the idea of the repeats and cycles. These are concepts that exist within the fabric of all digital art and animation, but which are often hidden or overlooked. Loops are the foundation of digital production and this exhibition invites viewers to take a closer look and explore these ideas further."

Dr Jukes is an experimental, fine art digital animator who seeks to develop alternative approaches to the creation and presentation of 3D computer generated animation.

Before joining Edge Hill, he worked in the media industry as a practitioner across a number of fields including 3D modelling, animation, video game production, graphics for television and interactive digital media.

Also involved in the exhibition are Matt Hattler, an artist and academic who works with abstract animation, video installation and audio-visual performance; Alan Warburton, an award-winning British artist who explores software in contemporary culture; and the Cypherdelic group, which develops life simulation video games.

Exhibition creator Dr Alex Jukes, senior lecturer for animation at Edge Hill University.

The workshops take place between 1and 4pm on Saturdays, March 23, April 27 and May 4. Places are limited and can be reserved by email to chapel.gallery@westlancs.gov.uk.

Talks by Alex Jukes and James Shepherd, from Cypherdelic, will be held on Wednesday, March 20 and Saturday, May 4, respectively, from 6.30 to 7.30pm

Loop Effect will be exhibited at the gallery in St Helens Road, Ormskirk until Saturday, May 4. To find out more go to https://alexjukes.files.wordpress.com/2019/02/loopeffect.pdf.

OWL race night is a winner for charities

LOUISE Reynold, manager of The Wellbeing Centre on Moorgate in Ormskirk, is pictured receiving a cheque for £150 from Peter Lloyd, fundraising officer with Our West Lancashire.

The money was raised at a charity race night organised by the independent political group at the Civic Hall and compered by Jim Briscoe from the Ormskirk's Pleasure Folk Amateur Dramatics and Musical Society.

A donation of £100 was also given to Ormskirk Scout and Guides.

Village scheme recognition for football club stalwart

Report by Kenny Parker

A DEDICATED official at a West Lancs amateur football club has been recognised for his "outstanding contribution" to village life.

Darren McDonald, vice-chairman of Hesketh Bank AFC, was presented with a 'Love Hesketh Bank' award by Hesketh-With-Becconsall Parish Council in recognition of his tireless work to help get the club's pitch back up to scratch.

By this time last year, the club had only just managed to play the first match of the season due to the poor condition of the Station Road ground which was constantly waterlogged. This prompted the club to take drastic - and expensive - measures, to completely overhaul the drainage system and re-seed the pitch.

Ironically, given the problems they had experienced, the start of the work coincided with a prolonged spell of hot weather necessitating regular watering of the newly re-seeded pitch.

Darren McDonald at his beloved Hesketh Bank AFC.

Which was where Darren stepped in, rising in the early hours of the morning over a six-week period to water and nurture the playing surface.

And his dedication and diligence helped to ensure the club hit its target of playing their first match on time in the first week of September.

Darren, who has lived in Hesketh Bank all his life, was at the ground from 5am every morning to water the pitch. And his selfless dedication to the cause was even impressive given that his father was terminally ill in hospital at the time.

He said: "The support from the locals, who appreciated what we were doing helped to keep me going.

"The contractors also did a fantastic job with the pitch and I take pride in the fact that visiting clubs are now impressed rather than constantly being turned away because we can't play."

The Love Hesketh Bank campaign, celebrating what is great about the village, was launched on Valentine's Day in 2014.

Parish Councillor Diane Earles, said: "In these individual awards, introduced in 2016, the parish council recognises those who have made an outstanding contribution to the village, showing their love for Hesketh Bank."

Teenagers bag £883 with hospice fundraiser

A TEENAGER and her friends, all pupils at St Bede's Catholic High School in Ormskirk, raised £883 for St Joseph's Hospice in Thornton with a supermarket bag-packing session.

13-year-old Faith Barker from Maghul, came up with the idea of the fundraiser in memory of her auntie, Dot Harrison.

The youngsters (pictured) and two parents took part in the event at Morrisons in Maghull as part of the school's Faith in Action scheme.

Faith's mum, Cheryl, said: "The youngsters bag-packed from 10am until 4pm and did well to raise so much. We are so proud of Faith to come up with the idea of this fundraiser and it was good of her friends to help out."

Bar operators warned about risks of failing to tackle drugs issues

A LICENSING expert is warning pubs and bar operators to be aware of their responsibilities when it comes to tackling drug use.

Malcolm Ireland, head of leisure and licensing at regional law firm, Napthens, said that some premises - including pubs and other venues - fail to deal with the issue properly but with a few small changes could make a real difference.

Meanwhile, not taking the matter seriously can mean significant problems for an operator, including the risk of being stripped of their licence.

Mr Ireland, whose company have offices across the North West, including Southport and Preston, said: "It's an important duty of all licensed premises to help prevent crime and disorder and to promote public safety, among other responsibilities.

"Also, it's an unfortunate reality that the night time economy is associated with drugs, but there is much that operators can do to help and to ensure that they are fulfilling all their responsibilities.

"For instance, the British Beer & Pub Association recommends enforcing a robust drugs policy and ensuring all staff are properly trained in identifying signs of drug use or supply. Installation of CCTV and an effective door team can also play an important role.

"Failing to tackle a drug problem in a venue can potentially lead to police action and loss of a premises licence. Therefore, establishing and maintaining a good working relationship with the local police is critical, demonstrating a commitment to helping create a safe environment.

"Where we see problems occurring is also where an operator has buried their head in the sand or failed to recognise there is an issue, so it's important to play a part."

Win tickets to The Full Monty

THE final ever UK and Ireland tour of Sheffield Theatre's Production of Simon Beaufoy's award winning stage play, The Full Monty, based on the Fox Searchlights Pictures Motion Picture is coming back to Liverpool and the Champion has tickets to give away for the night.

The production will play the Empire Theatre from Monday 18 to Saturday, March 23.

This all-star cast will be led again by Gary Lucy (Luke Morgan in Hollyoaks, EastEnders, The Bill, Footballers's Wives, winner of Dancing On Ice) who has made the part of Gaz his own, along with Andrew Dunn (best known as Tony in Dinnerladies and for his regular appearances playing Alastair Campbell in Bremner, Bird & Fortune) as Gerald, Louis Emerick (Mike Thornberry in Coronation Street, Norman the Doorman in Benidorm, Brookside, Last of the Summer Wine) as Horse, Joe Gill (Finn Barton in Emmerdale) as Lomper, Kai Owen (Rhys in Torchwood & Pete in Hollyoaks) as Dave and James Redmond (Finn in Hollyoaks and Abs Denham in Casualty) as Guy.

Joining them will be Liz Carney as Jean, Amy Thompson as Mandy, Bryonie Pritchard as Linda and Keeley Fitzgerald as Sharon.

Through these woman we see the other side of the story, the challenging journey's they face to stand by their men and how they ultimately take their hats off to them all.

Other cast members include: Andrew Ashford, Stephen Donald, Alex Frost, Fraser Kelly and Lee Toomes.

The Full Monty stage play about six out-of-work, impoverished steelworkers from Sheffield with nothing to lose took the world by storm and has become one of Britain's most successful shows.

Based on his highly acclaimed, smash hit film and adapted for the stage by Oscar – winning writer Simon Beaufoy, this heartfelt production features the iconic songs from the film by Donna Summer, Hot Chocolate and Tom Jones.

The Full Monty is Simon Beaufoy's first work for the theatre.

His screen credits include: The Hunger Games: Catching Fire, Salmon Fishing in Yemen, Battle of the Sexes & Slumdog Millionaire as well as The Full Monty.

This new production will be directed by Rupert Hill whose credits include directing the films Leather-bird, Mole Hills, and Rolling with Punches.

Rupert is also an actor and has been a previous Full Monty cast member and known from Coronation Street where he played Jamie Baldwin.

The production is designed by Robert Jones (National Theatre and RSC), choreography by Ian West (The Blues Brothers & The Play What I Wrote), lighting is by Colin Grenfell (theatre award winner for Blackwatch) and sound by Luke Swaffield (The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night time).

The Tony, Olivier and Evening Standard award winning producers David Pugh and Dafydd Rogers present this Sheffield Theatre's Production.

To be in with a chance of winning the tickets answer the following question, which character does Gary Lucy play in The Full Monty? Answers by email to henry.james@champnews.com by 12 noon on Friday, March 15. The tickets must be taken on Monday, March 18 at 7.30pm.

Society presenting two shows for price of one

TWO shows for the price of one! From the evening of Wednesday, March 20 until the Matinee on Saturday, March 23 Crosby Gilbert and Sullivan Society will be presenting HMS Pinafore and Trial by Jury at the Little Theatre, Southport.

Crosby Gilbert and Sullivan Society is a long-established society, its first performance being at the Winter Gardens Theatre in Waterloo in 1951 followed by productions at the Neptune Theatre Liverpool and the Civic Hall, Crosby, finally coming to Southport in 2017 with a performance of Pirates of Penzance.

HMS Pinafore tells the story of forbidden love between Josephine, the daughter of Captain Corcoran of HMS Pinafore with a lowly sailor on board his ship, Ralph Rackstraw (Josephine and Ralph being played in perfect harmony by Sally Shaw and Peter Crichton.)

Captain Corcoran, portrayed by Simon Killeen, has his eyes on his daughter marrying the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Joseph Porter, KCB, and is appalled that his daughter should want to marry "the meanest tar that crawls the water."

Sir Joseph Porter, brought to you by Jonathan Taylor, is proud of his transition from "office boy in an attorney's firm" to his present position of ruler of the Queen's Navy accompanied by his cousin Hebe (Elaine Williams) and a bevy of sisters, cousins and aunts.

We must not forget the important roles played by the mean-spirited Dick Deadeye (Ed Davies), the two able seamen Bill and Bob (Brian Tubb and John Groom-Hollis) and young Tom Tucker (Mia Colquhoun); and finally Little Buttercup (Isobel Jenkins), a Portsmouth Bumboat woman with a dark secret.

Isobel has just received a NODA award for Most Entertaining Comedy Performance for her portrayal of Mad Margaret in last year's production of Ruddigore.

In true Gilbertian fashion the plot develops with various twists and turns with memorable tunes and choruses composed by Sullivan, until the final denouement when a surprise revelation changes everything and rank is cast aside to result in a happy ending for all.

Trial by Jury is a short one act operetta about a lawsuit for Breach of Marriage where the judge and legal system are the objects of light-hearted satire and scorn.

First performed in 1875 it was the second collaboration of the duo Gilbert and Sullivan following Thespis.

It was to be the forerunner of many successful operettas still performed today. Because of its 40 minute length it is often performed in conjunction with another operetta.

The broken-hearted bride (Lindsay Colquhoun) is suing the defendant (Peter Crichton} for having deserted her and turned his affections to another.

A courtroom drama takes place with somewhat biased dialogue between the counsel for the plaintiff, the defendant and the foreman of the jury (Michael Seagar, Peter Crichton and John Groom-Hollis respectively).

The learned judge (Jonathan Taylor) providing the perfect solution at the end of the drama.

A strong chorus and "excellent" soloists make these shows well worth watching.

Tickets can be purchased at the Theatre Box Office or by telephoning 01704 530521 between 11am and 2.30 pm.

We are therefore looking for candidates with a good knowledge about a range of children's needs. Ideally, the successful candidates would have some experience of working with special schools and/or of the social, emotional and mental health issues children face as well as an understanding of the needs of children with ASD.

Tomorrow's petrolheads really do need things to stick on their bedroom walls...

David Simister believes the F8 Tributo is exactly what the petrolheads of tomorrow need to inspire them

YOU might not believe it, but a hefty new government report that's officialdom's equivalent of a ticking-off from a stern headteacher and the new Ferrari are setting out to do roughly the same thing.

Yep, Public Health England are tackling the same case as the chaps at Maranello – but from wildly different perspectives. Both, you see, are trying to win over the hearts and minds of the next generation of petrolheads – by convincing the next generation of motorists-in-the-making that cars aren't their enemy.

Whitehall first, then. I'm not entirely sure about its suggestions for scrappage schemes in its new report, but I'm actually in agreement with the idea that cars sat idling outside schools is not a good thing. In fact, I'd go even further than their suggestion of fining the culprits and let local authorities do their utmost to prevent children from being chauffeured to class in a never-ending slew of Audi Q5s and BMW X3s. I'm happy to go on record as saying that proper investment in getting kids to school on buses, not cars, is the way forward (and the fact it'll make my commute much quicker has nothing to do with it, honestly). Why? Because in the long-run a school run devoid of oversized diesel off-roaders will weaken the argument that cars are the enemy.

That's the stick out of the way – which is a good thing, because Ferrari and Aston Martin have some particularly fresh-looking carrots, if this year's Geneva Motor Show was anything to go by. Kia, Hyundai and Skoda did turn up with some new stuff, of course, but the recurring theme at the latest outing seems to be that mid-engined supercars are back in fashion.

I'm not sure if they ever went out of fashion in the first place – and my baggy t-shirts, Tears for Fears albums and side-parting mean I'm not exactly in a position to judge anything fashion-related – but there are definitely plenty of carmakers giving them another crack.

Let's skip straight past Bugatti's Voiture Noire, billed as the world's most expensive car, despite the fact it's only made one and it's already sold anyway. Aston Martin have decided to ditch decades of tradition and launch its new Vanquish not as a front-engined GT, but as a mid-engined Ferrari rival, and it looks fabulous.

Which is where we get to Ferrari, of course.

Forget the fact that its new F8 Tributo has a terrible name – Tributo, translated from Italian in Layman's English, means 'Tribute', as in Ferrari's tribute to how marvellous its own award-winning V8 engines are.

Look past the new arrival being a heavily updated version of the outgoing 488 GTB, too, and the fact that it contributes precisely nothing to the hybrid/electric conversation because it has a 710bhp twin-turbo V8 that relies on setting things alight to do its business. None of this matters a jot because it looks utterly mesmerising – the F40-aping heat vents in the rear window, especially – and sounds like a Ferrari should at full chat. It is unapologetically bedroom wall stuff – which fills me with hope, because what tomorrow's petrolheads need are things to stick on bedroom walls.

That and a school run that isn't choked up with diesel fumes from cars sat idling outside the front gates, of course...

MG nearing launch of first all-electric model

MG is getting ready to launch its first ever all-electric model when a zero-emissions version of its ZS off-roader goes on sale here later this autumn.

There's no word on the exact pricing, but expect it to be not far off the £12,495 that the petrol-powered version, which has been on sale here since 2017, currently starts at.

The carmaker's said that the electric systems won't affect the current car's bootspace or five-seat layout, and will be sharing more details nearer to the car's launch.

For more information about this model or their full range, visit the MG website at www.mg.co.uk

The company is basing its first electric model on the existing petrol-powered ZS off-roader

Injury-hit Linnets slump to defeat

1874 Northwich 4
Burscough 2

A BURSCOUGH squad which was struggling with injuries slumped to defeat away at 1874 Northwich.

It was a poor performance from the Linnets, who were up against a team which had won three out of their last four league games.

Northwich 1874 were determined to avenge Burscough knocking them out of the FA Cup earlier in the season.

Burscough were without influential midfielder Dimitri Nkusu-Wasaulu with a hamstring injury and Danny Brady from the team that beat Barnoldswick Town 5-0 last week.

Matters weren't helped when Nkusu-Wasaulu's replacement Peter Henerty pulled up injured in the pre-match warm-up.

After the hosts put an early opportunity wide Burscough went close at the other end, 1874 goalkeeper Tong Aghayere making a good save from Conor Finlayson, however the ball ran clear and after an almighty scramble the ball was kicked to safety.

On 20 minutes Burscough lost possession and they couldn't have chosen a worse man to lose it to than top scorer than Scott McGowan, who made it 1-0.

Burscough were well in it during the first-half and Whyte brought a quality tip over the crossbar out of Aghayere after 29 minutes.

When Burscough's equaliser came on 33 minutes it was thoroughly deserved. A long throw-in from the right by Alex Parkes was helped on and Ryan Grier stabbed home to make it 1-1.

During this period Burscough went near to taking the lead, Jordan Lorde bringing another save out of Aghayere then Finlayson put an effort wide.

The warnings for Burscough were there for all to see before half-time though as Aaron Smith crashed the ball against the Burscough crossbar via a free-kick.

The 15 minutes immediately after the restart were crucial to the outcome of the game.

McGowan beat his marker to a Mike Koral cross and thumped the ball past Fletcher with a powerful drive to make it 2-0.

Soon afterwards Luke Gibson went close with a header from Lorde's corner but then Burscough lost possession again and again it had consequences, McGowan was the beneficiary setting up Koral to make it 3-1.

1874 were now in control and Burscough struggled to make an impact.

If there was any doubt about the destination of the points there was none at all with a quarter of an hour to go, Taylor Kennerley was allowed too much space at the far post and volleyed home to make it 4-1.

In the latter stages Burscough pulled a goal back, another throw-in was capitalised on and substitute Donald Eumessi netted.

Burscough really did miss the drive and energy that Dimitri Nkusu-Wasaulu brings to the midfield.

Griffiths strike finally gives Skem first home win of season to keep alive faint survival hope

Report by Neil Leatherbarrow

Skelmersdale United 1
Kendal Town 0

SKELMERSDALE United won their first match since last September to finally give their fans something to cheer about.

There were big celebrations at the final whistle on Tuesday night (March 5) as Skem tasted victory for the first time at home this season, which ended a run of 20 league games without a win.

It's only their second win of the season, following a 2-0 win away at Radcliffe on September 29.

Although the victory is still unlikely to spark any chance of surviving relegation, it has provided the optimistic of fans that there is some hope of clinging onto their place in Evo-Stik Division One West.

It didn't take Skem long to open the scoring and they struck the only goal of the game within the first two minutes.

A corner from new signing Liam Wood was sent towards the penalty spot and Alex Griffiths hit it first time for what proved to be the winner.

Having seen off pressure from Kendal, Skelmersdale were the dominant side for the remainder of the first half.

In the 18th minute it was very close to 2-0 as Wood sent in a swirling cross from wide on the left and it was going under the crossbar until Kendal goalkeeper Joao Mendes acrobatically kept the ball out.

Debutant Wood is an interesting signing, especially considering what happened on the night. He was actually in the Radcliffe side that Skelmersdale beat back in September and along with Griffiths and Yeldrem was one of three players remaining who played in that game.

Wood was again the instigator of Skelmersdale's next attack on 37 minutes, picking up the ball just inside the Kendal half he took it forward through two challenges before unleashing a vicious shot from 30 yards that went inches wide of the post.

Skelmersdale started the second half threateningly.

Jordan Tyrer had a header well saved by Mendes, but then Kendal who were desperate to win, started to push Skelmersdale onto the defensive. Skelmersdale had one big scare in the 70th minute. From a left-wing corner Kyle Delves fired in a header that was going inside the post, but Louis Keegan did very well to scramble the ball off the line.

The latter period saw nerves having an impact on Skelmersdale, no doubt brought on by the sight of the finishing line.

They fell back into a deep defensive position, but although Kendal huffed and puffed for an equaliser and the referee gave five added minutes, Skem were not going to give away this long awaited.

Former Burscough boss set for return to Victoria Park with West Didsbury

SKELMERSDALE United are on the road on Saturday when they travel to Widnes and Burscough are at home when they take on West Didsbury & Chorlton at Victoria Park.

Both games will constitute a reunion of sorts.

Widnes are managed by former Skelmersdale United favourites Steve Akrigg and Kevin Towey, while Burscough's opponents West Didsbury are managed by former Burscough and Skelmersdale United manager Dave Powell.

The return of Powell to Burscough will be an interesting one because it is alleged that he left the Linnets managerial seat with some bad feeling between the two sides.

Dave Powell

Although he has been back to Victoria Park before that was with Skelmersdale United in a Liverpool Senior Cup tie that was overshadowed by other issues.

West Didsbury are struggling in North-West Counties Premier Division and will be desperate to pick up the points to bolster their relegation fight, so it could be a doubly interesting match, especially as Burscough have a few injury doubts in vital positions.

Skelmersdale's game last Saturday at Colne was postponed so it will be Skem's first win since they ended their poor run of results with a victory over Kendal Town.

They still on paper have a chance of staying up and you can be sure that they will be trying hard to pick up three desperately needed points.

Silverware in sight for Edge Hill teams as season draws to a close

SILVERWARE remains in sight for some of Edge Hill University's sports teams as the British Universities & Colleges Sport (BUCS) season nears its conclusion.

The women's football team recovered from an early setback to defeat UCLAN firsts 4-1 to move to within one match of a second successive promotion.

Lea Winter equalised UCLAN's early opener, and Ruby Howard struck before the break before Annabel Ainscough made her mark with two goals in the second half.

The result maintains their two-point advantage over Manchester firsts, who have a game in hand. That statistic will be irrelevant if they win their final fixture in what will be the Northern 2A title decider next time out in Fallowfield; anything less and the championship will likely head down the M62.

Meanwhile Edge Hill men's rugby league side warmed up for their Trophy semi-final against Northumbria with a 48-20 Northern 1A victory over Salford firsts in their final league fixture of the campaign – a result which secured second place.

The injury-plagued Tigers recovered from a poor start to overpower their visitors in the second half, with Josh Mousdell claiming a hat-trick of tries.

The men's firsts' hockey team, already promoted but depleted for the visit of Manchester thirds, somehow maintained their unbeaten league record with a 5-5 draw.

Three goals in the final eight minutes kept that statistic intact after Manchester, needing a point to preserve their Northern 3A status, had taken control to lead 5-2 in the second half.

Jac Horwood, Connor Lloyd (2), Ross Gordon and James Aberley were the scorers, with Lloyd completing the comeback with his second goal.
